THANK YOU TO ALL WHO CONTRIBUTED!

Since the aftermath from the recent floods, the spirit of uBuntu is stronger than ever

The Pavilion Shopping Centre who has always cared for their local community immediately started up a flood relief campaign to run a donation drive for clothing, blankets, and non-perishable food items.

All these items that have been donated by shoppers will be distributed to those in need who were affected by the KZN floods which will be managed by their flood campaign partner, SA Harvest.

Pictured are Lisa Folkard and Avesh Udiajoo from The Pavilion Marketing team gathering up items that were dropped off in the various collection boxes that are placed at the Customer Information Desk and on the level at the Social Gallery. Udiajoo added that they are overwhelmed and grateful from the public support and they would like to thank all who contributed to help those in need!

Street Store at Denis Hurley Centre

Grace Family Church and the Denis Hurley Centre, together with a host of volunteers and partner organisations, worked together on Saturday 4 June 2022 to serve hundreds of homeless and vulnerable people at a "Street Store" alongside the Denis Hurley Centre in central Durban.

220 boxes of clothes were neatly folded and laid out like a department store. In addition, people were offered haircuts, foot washing, children's toys, TB and HIV screening, COVID vaccines and delicious breyani. (Photo: Brett Morgan).

Are you Desperate For Financial Solution?

Tired of sleepless nights worrying about the growing debt of people you know?

Feeling helpless at not being able to truly help those who are getting into debt as a result of the economy and lockdown?

Overwhelmed that no matter how you or they try, the debt grows with interest faster than it can be worked off?

My purpose in life is to annihilate debt and eliminate the stress and relational pressure associated with debt. Having walked a very personal road with debt at no fault of my own many years ago, I understand the terrible emotions and pressure debt places on people. I am on a mission to help people reduce their debt, create a workable plan to deal with the debt and have a set date to look forward to knowing their debt will be paid once and for all. Seeing the relief on peoples' faces when their debt is reduced, there is a set payment plan in place and a clear end date to that debt is priceless and truly rewarding for me.

Money and Legal Matters, founded in January 2000, has helped around 10000 people in South Africa save up to 70% of their debt value. Our legal and financial team are passionate about people getting out of debt and living a life without the worry and stress associated with debt. We are not a debt review company as debt review often costs you more than it saves you.

Our unique way of dealing with debt will reduce your debt by up to 70%, allow us to negotiate a payment plan that everyone is happy with and give you a fixed date to work toward to be debt free.

Keith's Testimonial:

"I was at quite a stressful and dark place in my life around two years ago,' says Keith, on the brink of total financial collapse. His debt had been worsened by two failed dealings with shifty loan/debt consultants.

Disheartened, it was a huge leap of faith for me to visit Money & Legal Matters, and I wasn't expecting much. I met with professionals, who talked me through the entire process, analyzed my debt and my affordability, and mentored me through the process. I was not pressured, and felt the process was both highly educational and transparent."

Do not feel there is no way out – do not take irresponsible and rash steps with your money. Approach professionals, deal only with accredited agencies, and always know what is being done with your money throughout the process.'

ANT FACTS WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

Many ant species build their nests outdoors, and became a nuisance when they forage for food inside your home.
Some of the more common ant species that may invade and choose to reside inside are pavement ants, carpenter ants, odorous house ants, thief ants, acrobat ants and pharaoh ants.
Ants inside your home or apartment can be a seasonal or year-round problem.
Once they discover a good food source, some species may decide to live inside your home, others may collect their food and leave to take the food back to their outdoor colony.
Inside ants may be found near their food sources, moisture and in hidden, protected places like wall voids, under appliances, behind window frames and beneath floors.
Ants like to live close to people and eat some of the same things we do - sweets, meats, starches and liquids.

Tafta launches Elder Abuse awareness campaign to commemorate World Elder Abuse Awareness Day

The Association for The Aged (Tafta) invites the public to support their Elder Abuse awareness campaign as a build up to World Elder Abuse Awareness Day commemorated on 15 June annually.

During this campaign, Tafta will embark on an awareness programme that includes reaching out to our local communities in public spaces, and schools, to educate on and promote the reporting of elder abuse.

Tafta kicked off the campaign with a visit to Clifton School in Morningside on 24 May where learners are taking the initiative to raise funds for the organisation by completing chores in their neighbourhoods, and are adopting the Purple Hearts sticker programme which encourages supporters to purchase Tafta branded stickers in an effort to encourage solidarity in standing against elder abuse. These stickers, as well as purple clothing, wristbands and badges will be worn on 15 June to show support for the cause.

Lauren Klingbiel, of Clifton School, is heading the awareness programme with learners at Clifton and has already managed to raise R5000 toward Tafta's Needy Pensioners programme. "Our goal is to raise a minimum of R10 000 to assist Tafta in their efforts of ensuring elders' rights are upheld. We will also host 50 of their elders at our school for a morning of tea and entertainment performed by our learners to show our support and enrich the lives of those who once cared for us," said Klingbiel.

The next phase in the campaign will see the organisation reaching out to communities by hosting mall activations in various suburbs. During these activations, local shoppers will have the opportunity to learn more about Tafta, impact an elder's life through a monetary donation, and win prizes through interactive stands. Proceeds raised through these activations will go toward Tafta's Needy Pensioners Fund, from which money is accessed to facilitate rehabilitation, support and independence for elders who have been victim to elder abuse.

"From a Social Media perspective, the organisation will be sharing information and resources on how to reach out, access support and report suspected elder abuse. We hope that through these platforms we are able to access a wider audience and shed light on the harsh reality of instances of neglect, abandonment and physical, verbal, financial or sexual abuse inflicted on older persons," said Tafta CEO, Femada Shamam.

"In providing support for elders in need of assistance, we will simultaneously promote Tafta's Meals on Wheels programme which is used by our Social Workers when addressing elder abuse cases as a means to ensure elders' basic rights to food and nutrition are met," explained Shamam.

If you would like to join Tafta on their mission to care for and enrich the lives of the elderly, please visit www.tafta.org.za or call Tafta's Marketing and Fundraising Coordinator Kemmy-Leigh Moodley on 031 332 3721.

'Families and Urbanisation'

The 'Faith Action to End GBV Collective' supports the UN International Day for Families 2022

It is well known that most gender-based violence takes place where people should feel safest – in their own homes amongst intimate partners. In 2017 almost 3 in 5 women killed were killed by their partners or family worldwide. Violence and abuse occur too most commonly within families.

What social factors contribute to these phenomena? Has the rapid urbanization rate of the 20th century affected the ways in which family members relate to one another and the support structures that are available? 63% of the population now resides in urban settings which differ vastly in type and distribution. How have new technologies contributed to the lifestyles of the different city-dwellers? How can people's faith become a resource to bring mutual respect, healing and harmony in families and society?

'Faith Action to End GBV' is a collective of faith-based organizations and individuals working together to create a South Africa free from gender injustice and gender-based violence. Our objective is to equip ourselves as the faith sector, to become a key player in achieving the objectives of the SA National Strategic Plan against Gender-Based Violence and Femicide (NSP). We were pleased to adopt the 'UN International Day of Families' on the 15th May 2022 as a particularly powerful opportunity to address questions like those raised above amongst faith leaders, faith communities and families themselves.

The UN 2022 IDF theme "Families and Urbanisation," with a subtheme of the impact of migration, as well as the 2021 focus on new technologies are very relevant at this time where technology and digital communications have become so pervasive. In an environment where people are often forced to live in close proximity, we bear witness to how these realities contribute to the crimes against women and girls predominantly, as well as men, such as: ● human trafficking ● sexual grooming, sexting, pornography and revenge porn ● online stalking, tracking and monitoring, intimidation, surveillance, limiting and impeding freedoms, rights and dignity of survivors and victims of abuse.

The 'Faith Action to End GBV Collective' is embarking on a social media GBV campaign on the above themes through publishing a series of messages. FA invites all to share these on social media platforms as well as link up with us on social media platforms. Members of the collective will be available to facilitate conversations and interviews with experts in the field, within and beyond the collective. Cultivating a healthy digital culture rooted in sound ethics and human dignity, equality and harmony as taught in our diverse faith traditions is the goal. We want to promote the protection, safety and security of our families and the stigmatized in particular through the use of technology. The aim is to harness our collective efforts to work towards gender justice and zero incidence of gender-based violence in the family, our communities and society.

Celebrating Our Favourite Heroes This Father's Day

Precious memories of dad can be traced back to the very beginning, with them bouncing us on their sturdy shoulders as kids and then ferrying us between sports practices, after-school clubs, and parties as teens.

A silent source of strength and fiercely protective – they are the ultimate advice providers, givers of the most comforting hugs, and the dealer of some shamefully bad jokes Here are some ways to make this Father's Day extraordinarily special for doting dads who deserve to be treated for all that they do for us.

Since Father's Day falls on June 19th, get into the car, crank up his favourite music, and head to the countryside – the land of fresh country air - giving you memories of time spent together. But before you embark on this road trip, ensure you have packed his favourite beverage of choice, and maybe some art supplies?

This gives you an opportunity to either crack open a cold wine, or pour the beverage of choice, and immerse yourselves into painting together. Knowing how beautiful the country is, it will provide you with the most amazing landscapes. Whether born artists, or not, you'll have a good giggle while sipping away.

What most dads won't expect is some much needed pampering. He may be shocked at first, but will definitely love a spa day. Why not end off the spa day with a hamper of goodies, featuring items like shaving creams, soaps and of course some chocolate. For those dads who love to garden, and who have younger kids, get planting with him, choosing easy plants that don't require too much hard work and maybe even incorporate planting plants that you can cook with further down the line. This gives you another opportunity to bond by then cooking with him using the ingredients you planted together.

If you are away for Father's Day, instead of lounging around, why not go on a trail walk or jog in the area, especially if you are a family that is active. Gift your dad a homemade exercise voucher - it's a humorous, but thoughtful gift. On Father's Day, if you are able to, it is important to spend quality time together, so bring out those board games to create a family game night, playing classics like Monopoly, 30 Seconds, UNO, Charades, and more. It's time spent which will stay with him forever.

Gather all the family

This Father's Day is an extra special one. After two years of being banished indoors, we can finally unmask and spend priceless time with our loved ones. Plan a nice outing for all the family like going for a leisurely walk outdoors or visiting a nearby market to taste some of the local delicacies. If the weather is not playing ball, then why not snuggle under a blanket with cups of steaming hot chocolate and freshly baked gooey chocolate brownies and have a movie afternoon.

Whatever the activity, the main thing is for dad to know that everyone just wants to spend the day with him and celebrate the hard work he has put into holding the family together through these stressful years. One family tradition is to take lots of family photos, so we have something to fondly look back on in years to come.

Start the day right

Another idea would be to surprise dad with a five star breakfast, brunch or lunch. Or, nothing says Father's Day like a lie-in, and you can never go wrong with a sumptuous home-cooked meal to demonstrate your love and appreciation for dad. Cooking dad breakfast and delivering it straight to the bedroom is a classic treat. As kids get older, they have become more adventurous with breakfast, even preparing everything the night before so that they make less noise in the kitchen and don't wake dad up from his pretend sleep.

If you're assisting younger kids to treat your partner, involve them in the baking of an easy but tasty treat for dad, like some sweetie pie cupcakes or chocolate mousse cups. If you don't live with your father but want to preserve a bit of this tradition, why not pop over to his house with some freshly baked cookies, biltong, or his favourite chocolate wrapped up in brown paper.

Make it about him

Every father is different so put some thought into what would make his day extra special. If he's the adventurous type, why not pack up the family and go away for the weekend? Match tickets are always a winner for the sporty dad, or maybe a bottle of his favourite wine, or better still, why not book a wine tasting afternoon at a local farm? If your dad loves cooking, working with his hands, or gardening, dedicate some time during the day to helping him with his hobbies or maybe do something for him, like clean out his car, or help him in the garage. The trick is to make sure he feels special and loved, just like he always makes you feel.

No matter your age, or his, a father, or father figure, is a hero to every child, and Father's Day is a brilliant opportunity to come together and show your appreciation for his selfless love and kindness. No matter how you choose to spend the day, enjoying some quality time with loved ones, over delicious food, is never a bad idea.

There are hundreds of ways to spoil dad, but the most important part of Father's Day, and one that he will truly cherish, is spending time together, carving out new memories!

WEDDING JITTERS TO AVOID!

Planning a wedding, a ceremony, and honeymoon while you have a full-time job is extremely stressful. You have so much on your plate, and your stress levels take a bit of a hammering, especially if you are doing it all yourself.

It's generally important to take care of yourself, but even more so when you have a wedding approaching. Be sure to pay attention to yourself in the months and weeks leading up to the wedding.

Try look at alternative options before you walk down the aisle, especially options that will cause the least amount of anxiety. One of these options could include a bespoke wedding location to get rid of the "needless nerves".

Planning a wedding is hard. Trying to please parents, future in-laws, yourself, and your fiancé may seem like an impossible task. Most people don't have experience in planning such big and important parties.

So, if you are suffering from pre-wedding butterflies that is normal. Understanding the difference of being stressed over a wedding is one thing and it's not about having hidden concerns about going ahead with this big step.

Signs of pre-wedding jitters and what you can do about them:

1. Having trouble eating - we often feel like we have "butterflies" when we are anxious about something and this reduces our appetite. It's important to eat for strength and energy. Try eating yoghurts, cheese and biscuits, or even marmite on toast. Also, if possible, avoid any heavy sugary treats.

2. Can't sleep - anxiety brings racing thoughts, which tends to be exaggerated when your environment is quiet. Try elements that focuses on relaxation, like having a long bath, putting on some calming meditational music, or doing breathing exercises while thinking happy thoughts.

3. Exercise – nothing makes one feel better than a little exercise, whether it be yoga, meditation, walking or even a session at the gym. Any of these can take the edge off your anxiety. The best idea is to create a regular exercise schedule leading up to the wedding to keep those stresses to a minimum. It does help.

4. Battling to concentrate – get out that notebook and make a list, and tick off as you go. Don't try and be a hero and think you can remember everything – you are going to forget important aspects which will then just stress you more. (That is why we have bridesmaids to delegate).

5. Short-tempered - this is part of the anxiety process, so try think before reacting and speak calmly to help restore your Zen.

6. The checklist - Who is the boss? The list is! Make a checklist and also include people you can trust to take on some of the responsibilities.

If you worry about the day plan, then the checklist needs to include a timeline i.e. contacting various suppliers before the big day. Planning in advance and starting early with all your necessary arrangements will prevent unwanted anxiety and unwanted pressure.

7. Change the tradition – no one says you have to have a big wedding.
Remember it's not the size of the wedding that counts, but rather sharing it with those who mean the world to you.

SKIN CARE OVER THE DECADES!

Old is gold, especially when beauty secrets are passed down through generations. When it comes to skin care, grandmothers and mothers know it all. They chose home remedies and natural treatments to beautify their skin.

From old wives' tales to quirky little hacks, many ladies in the home have tips and tricks specific to them. We take a look back at skin-care through the decades, starting from the "Roaring 20's" right up to the 50's.

1920's - The beginning of this decade, often referred to as the roaring twenties, signified a time of change for women. The Victorian era of pale, covered-up skin and minimal face makeup were out, and a more vibrant look was in. As such, women began taking better care of their skin. By this time, regular bathing had also become normalized, baths even started to be used for relaxation and comfort, although weren't quite as extravagant as the bath we pamper ourselves with today!

1930's - An overall bronzed look became fashionable in the roaring '20s, and by the 1930's, women all over wanted to debut a light summer tan year-round. Cosmetic companies took note and followed suit, launching face powders in darker shades meant to provide a 'barely-there' tan. More elaborate skin care routines also became popular during this decade, with many women going through 10-step skin care regimens every evening over a basin of hot water.

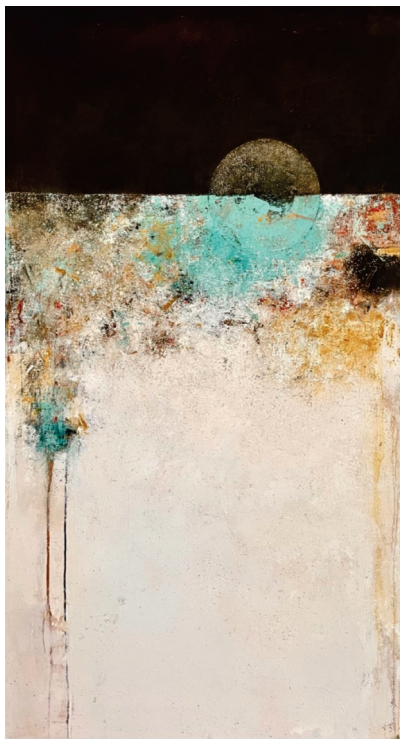

1940's - Following in the footsteps of the elaborate skin care routines that became the norm during the 1930s, women in the 1940's began to prioritize taking care of their skin over everything else. The use of cold cream became very popular, which women would often leave on their complexion overnight rather than washing off. Facial moisturizer also saw a rise in popularly, and women would layer on rich, thick creams that promised baby-soft skin.

1950's - DIY beauty didn't just become popular over the last few years. Back in the '50s, many women took a DIY approach to their skin care routines, using products we consider multi-use staples today, like baby powder and petroleum jelly.

These generations see the world differently and seek different experiences from their beauty brands. The beauty industry has a healthy future as long as it understands the critical nature of all of its consumer segments.

THE GALLERY @THE STUDIOS, LIFESTYLE CENTRE, BALLITO

"Be still, the sea is listening." Tidal: New exhibition honours our coastline Opens Thurs 2 June – 31 July

Tidal is a new exhibition opening in the Gallery, Lifestyle Centre in Ballito this Thursday 2 June, which honours our magnificent coastline.

This is exhibition celebrates our fragile, magnificent coastline. Twice daily we witness the miraculous shifting of the tides as they come in and out. Sealife is exposed, then it is submerged all to the rhythm of the moon. We are all one, we are all living beings that live to this rhythm. This exhibition honours the power of the sea and all it gifts us. It is not too late to protect our precious oceans… " explains exhibition curator, Jane Digby.

A collaboration of local artists connect and communicate through the visual arts to create this beautiful, poignant exhibition celebrating the treasures of the sea and the magnificent of the coastline.

Leigh Bisset's two large and poignant installations positioned outside The Studios, explore the use of reclaimed fishing materials. The destructive wake of overfishing to satisfy the greed and consumerism is one of the biggest threats to the health of the seas and their inhabitants. Fish are taken faster than they can naturally replenish, and by-catch of marine life such as turtles, dolphins etc is senselessly discarded.

Robert Rorich has two magnificent bronzes on exhibition: The Manta Ray is displayed as an art piece in the open air this sculpture brings forth the rays oceanic majesty into our own mind and home.

His second piece is She Down There which imagines the allure of the plump sirenian is in its gentle nature and peaceful pasturing. Because of their docile disposition, they are easily hunted by humans and are often entangled in fishing nets, contributing to their decline and vulnerable status. Half of all proceeds of the sale of the limited edition bronzes will go to dugong conservation.

More than a dozen 2D artiste feature in the exhibition: Jane Digby; Nic Human, Leigh Bisset; Chantelle Hopewell; Lori Schappe Youens ; Darylee Ziady; Ali Cockburn; Gift Dlamini; Kim Pereira; Natalie Deeb; Hilary Grant Currie; Ste van der Schyff.

Among the 3D artists are: Robert Rorick (magnificent collectors bronze sculptures); Seth Falconer (bronze sculpture whose minators are a delight to all; Claire Falconer (functional bronzes, vases and candle stick holders); Samantha Pitout (very popular ceramic masterpieces, each utterly unique and precious); Sarah Richards (magnificent bronze sculptures) ; Sma Shabalala (smaller figurines of sea world); Sharon Paterson (th Fat Ladies are back, by popular demand!

Bring delight to any home); Mervyn Dragsund (the contemporary PET, no fleas, no snoring, no mission – just pure delight); Phumlani Nwayo (cows on the beach!); Zinhle my Basket Shop (emerging business woman and stylist Zinhle will be exhibiting her baskets) Favordot Intl (an NGO of teenagers making ottomans from recycled tyres to pay for education) and Scent Africa (handmade candles, diffusers by young entrepreneur Pearl Khambule making practical art in candles).

Ballito Lifestyle Centre, The Studios celebrates First Thursday on 2 June – an all day event, from 9 till 20:30. With artists walkabouts, painting demos, live entertainment and many delicious and inspiring treats on offer.

CHILLING OVER A CHILLI

Durban is South Africa's HQ when it comes to cooking with chilli, and many of us here on the East Coast can't go a day without it in our meals. And now, with our weather changing and summer is slipping past us, we are gearing up for those chilly nights!

A perfect place to "stay toasty" and escape from the "chilli" air would be inside, by a fireplace. This is where you can keep warm from those crispy cool evenings.

Some trivia for those who don't know, chilli peppers actually originated from Bolivia and were first cultivated in Mexico. After the Columbian exchange, many cultivars of chilli pepper spread across the globe, used for both food and traditional medicine.

Legend states that in the 17th century the first chilli recipe was prepared by a Spanish nun, sister Mary of Agreda, who never left her convent but whose spirit visited the Jumano people while her body remained in Spain in a trance.

There are said to be about 4 000 varieties of chilli in the world and are divided into five capsicum species and an additional 28 wild forms. The five cultivated Capsicum chilli varieties are: Annuum / Baccatum / Chinense / Frutescens & Pubescens

The chilli comes in a variety of textures, colours and flavours, and not all are hot in flavour.

1. Carolina Reaper: The hottest on the planet and is even ranked in the Guinness Book of World Records. It was bred for heat and that it is, with an average SHU of 1,641,000 SHU and peaks at 2.2 Million SHU on the Scoville scale! The Carolina Reaper pepper is 200x hotter than a Jalapeno #WorldsHottestPepper

The Carolina Reaper is one hot pepper with a unique stinger tail that is unlike any other pepper, and every pod is different! The Carolina Reaper prices start from R280 for growing seed kits.

2. Trinidad Moruga Scorpion Red: This variety of chilli pepper originates from Moruga in Trinidad. The variety is considered as the world's second-hottest variety with a SHU ranking of 1.2 million units to 2,009,231.

3. Ghost pepper: This chilli is the hottest commercially available chilli seed. Firmly up there as part of the "Killer Category". Touching the flesh has been known to cause severe skin burns. The Bhut Jolokia is officially rated at an inferno like 1,001,304 Scoville heat units, according to the Guinness World Record.

4. Bird's eye chilli: The name of this variety is attributed to the fact that the peppers are often very small, making it easier for birds to spread their seeds and the garden birds definitely do love this snack. A must for a Durban curry or bunny chow. This variety comes in either green or red colours. However small they are, they are known to be beneficial in controlling pains as well as acting as antibacterial agents. The bird's eye ranges from 100,000 to 225,000 SHU on the Scoville scale.

5. Habanero chilli: The habanero pepper is a fiery chilli pepper with a fruity, citrusy flavour. It is prized for its level of heat, and is perfect for making hot sauces, spicy salsas, and infusing both heat and flavour into many dishes. They start off green on the habanero plants, but mature to a vibrant orange or red, depending on the variety. The pungency of the variety ranges from 100,000 to 350,000 SHU on the chilli scale.

6. Piri Piri (African Bird's eye or Peri Peri): This type of spice is vastly known among us here in South Africa. Its common use is in the preparation of Peri Peri chicken dishes. Peri Peri sauce is a traditional African sauce made from these peppers and is also known as Piri piri or pili pili and loved by any spicy food lover. It may be a small chilli but does provide some heat. Piri Piri has a ranking of 50,000 to 175,000 on the Scoville scale.

7. Red cayenne pepper: The red pepper is named after the city of Cayenne and predominantly used for flavouring dishes, as well as for medicinal purposes. Just about everyone has a glass bottle of cayenne in their kitchen to help spice up your pasta, seafood etc. These red chillies have a ranking of 30,000 to 50,000 SHU units.

8. Serrano: Serrano measures 10,000 to 25,000 SHU units on the Scoville scale. They are usually green when unripe but turn into a range of colours when ripe. The hot chilli pepper comes in handy when preparing salsa, fried, or pickled dishes.

9. Jalapeño and Chipotle: The terms Jalapeño and Chipotle are quite common in the pepper world. How are the two related? Chipotle peppers are typically Jalapeños, only that they have aged, dried, and smoked. As the chilli ripens, their capsaicin levels increase. Therefore, the heat difference is due to the 'age differences.' Chipotle South Africa looks dried and smoky while Jalapeños are fresh and crispy. Jalapeños range from 1,000 to 20,000 SHU, while Chipotles range from 2,500 to 10,000 SHU.

10. Peppadew: A South African pepper which was discovered in the 90's. Since then, the variety continues to gain global popularity.

The heat of the variety is mild, giving it a unique taste. The pepper has a rating of 1,100 to 1,200 SHU units. The peppadew chilli is vastly used in salads, a sandwich, quiches and so much more (depending on your personal choice).

Playhouse Opera: Thursday 2, 9, 16 June at 7pm.

The KZN Philharmonic Orchestra has announced details of its three concert 2022 World Symphony Series Winter Season. This runs in The Playhouse Opera in Durban every Thursday between 2 and 16 June, each concert starting at 7pm.

The new Winter Season sees the welcome return to the podium for two concerts of KZNPO associate conductor, the popular Israeli American Daniel Boico, a long-time favourite with Durban audiences.

The orchestra is also delighted to welcome back the young American maestro, Robert Moody, who made his KZNPO debut in 2019. On the soloist guest roster, the orchestra welcomes acclaimed new generation Venezuelan flautist Joidy Blanco; South African pianist Leo Gevisser; and acclaimed American piano virtuoso, Bryan Wallick.

Daniel Boico opens the season on 2 June with a performance of: Beethoven's popular Prometheus Overture to his ballet score, The Creatures of Prometheus. The award winning young Venezuelan flautist Joidy Blanco takes centre stage in two highly contrasting works for solo flute and orchestra, with the beguiling innocence of Mozart's exquisite Flute Concerto No 2, offset by the full-blooded swagger and bravado of Sarasate's Zigeunerweisen. The evening concludes with Mendelssohn's much loved 'Italian' Symphony No 4.

Returning to the podium on 9 June, Maestro Boico ushers in his second programme with the quicksilver wit and dazzle of Berlioz's brilliant Béatrice and Bénédict Overture, before being joined onstage by Leo Gevisser for a performance of Saint-Saëns's exotic Piano Concerto No 5.

Dubbed 'The Egyptian' Concerto as the composer penned it while on vacation in the ancient city of Luxor, the colourful work conjures up the sounds of night life on the banks of the Nile, as well suggesting sound effects reminiscent of travelogue climes further afield.

The evening's programme concludes with Brahms's richly textured Symphony No 3, admired by the composer's friend and confidant, the pianist Clara Schumann, for its heart-warming passages evoking the beauty of Nature.

The third and final programme of the season on Youth Day public holiday, 16 June, sees the young American conductor Robert Moody making a triumphant return to the Durban concert platform following his successful debut here three years ago.

The evening will feature a superbly curated programme opening with Mozart's mercurial Overture to his tragi-comic masterpiece, Così fan tutte. This paves the way for maestro Moody's compatriot, the virtuoso pianist Bryan Wallick to scale the heights of Prokofiev's hurricane Piano Concerto No 3. After interval the evening rounds off with Beethoven's magnificent Symphony No 7.

There will be free Tea and Symphony concerts for the final rehearsal every Thursday morning at 10am in the Playhouse Opera.

The bars are no longer open at the Playhouse; however complimentary tea and coffee will be served prior to concerts and during interval.

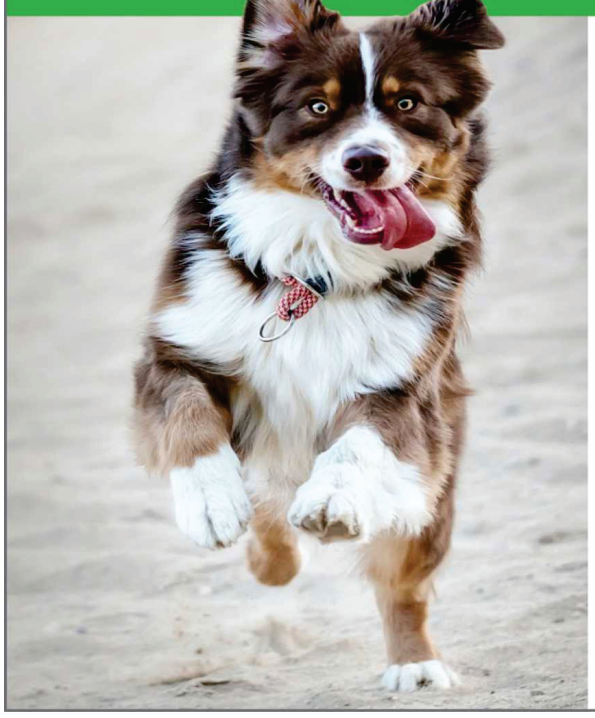

Season tickets for the KZN Philharmonic's World Symphony Series 2022 Winter Season are available through Quicket.

Hundreds of churchgoers answer the call to donate blood amidst national shortage

More than 600 members of Shincheonji Church of Jesus in Southern Africa answered the call to donate blood on Saturday 28 May 2022 to help ease the national blood shortage. The South African National Blood Service (SANBS) in KwaZulu-Natal is hopeful that more churches in the province will encourage their members to come in their numbers to donate blood.

Although the KZN donation drive took place in Pietermaritzburg and Durban respectively, it is hoped that it will spread to other towns such as Ladysmith, Newcastle, Richards Bay, Greytown and many more. Nationally, donation drives have started as early as Wednesday in Cape Town, Gqeberha (PE), Johannesburg and as far afield as Bafokeng. Across the border, Shincheonji churches in Namibia and Zimbabwe are also hosting similar events.

According to Ravi Reddy, the CEO of SANBS, blood stock levels are currently at a critically low level due to the COVID-19 pandemic that limited access to regular blood drive venues. "We are appealing to the public to please donate much-needed blood," Reddy said.

In KwaZulu-Natal, the SANBS says it is left with approximately four days' worth of blood supply. Neelashan Govender, a representative of the SANBS in the Durban area, remains hopeful the situation will get better as pupils are still donating while schools are open. He lamented the fact that the closure of schools due to holidays, impacts blood stock volume as it is scholars who normally donate in their numbers. Govender emphasized the importance of blood type O - as it can be used for all the other blood types.

"Currently we are facing a challenge when it comes to blood reserves which is not good for the community who get supplies from us as the blood bank. We always look forward to having new blood drives," said Zukile Manengela from SANBS in KwaZulu-Natal.

With this cry for help, hundreds of members of Shincheonji churches from different cities and towns across Southern Africa decided to organise a national blood drive. "The church's desire is to assist and alleviate this burden on the national and local blood service caused by the aftermath of the pandemic. We want to help the community and save lives in this time of shortage," a spokesperson for the church said.

"I want to help by giving 30-minutes of my time to donate one unit of blood, and hopefully save one or more lives. I am so excited that so many other members have also decided to do the same," Cleo Solomons, a congregation member of Shincheonji Church, said.

Another churchgoer, Nolwazi Bengu, said that "Because our hearts are for helping people, we moved as fast as lightning to organise this blood drive throughout the country. This is the very least that we can do. Please be encouraged by this and take some time yourself to also come and donate your blood."

Approximately 18,000 members of the church in South Korea also participated in donating blood since the start of their drive in April. This number was recorded as the largest group blood donation in the country to date. The head of the Korean Red Cross Blood Service, Mr Namsun Cho, said in a statement, "When the impact of the Omicron reached its peak, Shincheonji Church launched a large-scale blood donation drive. It was like rain during the drought. We are surprised that the number of donors exceeded 6,000 in just 3 days and so many more participated. We appreciate their life-saving dedication."

In KwaZulu-Natal, Manengela from the SANBS commented that, "We were told in the morning that we may expect more or less 40 people and when we came here and saw that the turnout was so good, I must say that it was a good benefit for the people of KwaZulu-Natal." He continued to thank Shincheonji members for organising the blood drive and for coming in great numbers. "Giving blood is basically giving someone life and it was good to see members of a church doing what they did today."

To find your nearest donation centre in KZN contact 0800 119 031 or 033 264 3600 (Pietermaritzburg) and 031 719 6841 (Durban).
